

Social Psychology Position Announcement

The Department of Psychology at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Social Psychology. We invite applications from individuals with expertise in any domain relevant to social psychology. This position will begin in August 2019. The Department comprises 32 tenure-track faculty in three Ph.D. programs (Clinical, Counseling, and Experimental). The position is in the Experimental Program, which comprises the Biological, Developmental, and Social areas. Information about the Department and Social Area is online at <http://psychology.utk.edu>. Candidates must have received a Ph.D. and should have a strong research record, enthusiasm for teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels, and potential for extramural funding. Position responsibilities include research, teaching at both undergraduate and graduate levels, and graduate training. The successful candidate will be expected to actively pursue and have strong potential for obtaining extramural funding.

Applicants should electronically submit their vita, research statement, representative publications, teaching statement, and three letters of recommendation to Ms. Connie Ogle at cjogle@utk.edu (please state "Social Psychology Search Committee" in the subject line). Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Please submit your application by October 1st, 2018 to ensure consideration.
